Joseph John Keery (born December 30, 1986) is an American actor, best known for his portrayal of Nathan Russo on the TV series Deadwood, as well as his appearances in multiple films. Life and career Keery was born in Portland, Oregon, the son of Elizabeth (née Mullen) and actor and writer Christopher Keery. He is of Irish and German descent. He attended the Florence School, a Catholic boys' private high school in Portland. He later attended New York University, where he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Theater. He is known for his roles in the films Old School, City Slickers, My Name Is Bruce, The Alamo, and the television series Deadwood and was a series regular on the television series The L Word. Keery portrayed a fictionalized version of Matthew Broderick's father-in-law in the 2003 film The Projector. He also played the character Paul Revere in The Crimson Wing: Mystery of the Flamingos, the independent film based on and starring The Scarlet Letter author Nathaniel Hawthorne. In 2017 he starred in the television series Shadowhunters and in 2018 he starred in the Netflix series
