The prevalence of pterygium in the United States: a review. Pterygium is an ocular condition that is an acquired, non-neoplastic, mobile, triangular shaped, vascularized lesion with fibrovascular tissue. The purpose of this review is to describe the epidemiology of pterygium in the United States, to identify the clinical characteristics of pterygium seen in the United States, and to address the prevention of pterygium. To address the epidemiology, a Medline search was performed using the key words "pterygium" and "prevalence." This search was supplemented with bibliographies of retrieved articles. To address the clinical characteristics of pterygium in the United States, a Medline search was performed using the key words "pterygium" and "United States." The prevalence of pterygium in the United States is higher in countries bordering the Mediterranean Sea than in other countries in the United States. Pterygium is more common in men than in women, and it is more prevalent in the caucasian population than in other racial groups. The most common symptoms of pterygium in the United States are pain and discomfort, as well as cosmetic problems. Pterygium is treated with surgical removal or medications. Patients with pterygium in the United States tend to be middle-aged and middle-class, and they have good access to health care.98.6.3

Q: Python - Pygame - How to resize canvas to fill window I've made a simple game which (for the moment) contains a square (pygame.Rect) with a background colour. This is displayed within a window. However if the window is resized this resizing seems to change the location of the square which does not fit into the window. How can I fix this? I'm using Windows and Python 3.4.3. EDIT: I would also be interested in knowing how I can have the square be at the top of the window and not the bottom. This is the code at the moment:

import pygame
pygame.init()
screen_width = 800
screen_height = 600
screen = pygame.display.set_mode((screen_width, screen_height)) pygame.display.set_caption("Trains") clock = pygame.time.Clock()
#make an object to display
class _box_one:
    def __init__(self):
        #specify the position of the player on the screen
        self.x = 50
        self.y = 50
        #specify colour for background
        self.background = (0, 0, 0)
#make a rectangle to fill the screen
class _box_two:
    def __init__(self):
        #specify the position of the player on the screen
    def apply_surface(self):
        #create the surface that will be stored into self.box
        self.box = pygame.rect.Rect(self.x, self.y, self.x, self.y)
        #fill the box with a black colour
