Android Apps To Keep Your Device Do you have a smartphone? But unfortunately, Android does not have a modern protective screen compared to other mobile devices. The physical destruction of a device is inevitable. However, do not worry, there are many Android applications that can add a protective solution. These applications offer two main benefits for protection: first of all, they maintain the user's safety of their phone by not only covering the entire phone, but also providing more than 90% protection. Secondly, it is important to keep data backed up as the process of recovery from a backup is rather simple. Below are the best apps for protecting your

What's New in the MJ Player?

Can be used on the go

The application comes in a pretty light package. As a direct consequence, you don't have to go through the whole bustle of hitting a few “Next” buttons to get it functional. This also enables you to keep it on a USB Flash drive and use on the go, while having no impact on the target system’s health status. Running the executable might bring a little disappointment, with all features wrapped in a poorly designed interface that feels really rough.

Playback controls are intuitive through icons, as well as all other elements, because of simple descriptions and corresponding trigger methods. Can be used on the go The application comes in a pretty light package. As a direct consequence, you don't have to go through the whole bustle of hitting a few "Next" buttons to get it functional. This also enables you to keep it on a
