Q: How to understand "and by the next morning" I'm reading a book from here and it saids the next morning. what does and by the next morning mean? Is it a preposition and mean "on the next day"? A: "By the next morning" is a phrase intended to show that something will happen at a particular time in the future. The cherry trees will be in full bloom by the next morning. It is not a preposition and it is actually a bit redundant, since "the next morning" is really just "the next day". /* Copyright IBM Corp. 2016 All Rights Reserved. 10 Tips To Play Better Audio On Your Next DJ Set Make Some Easy Changes to Help You

Enhance Your Next DJ Set For many DJs, the audio component is one of the most important elements of a performance. With a little help, you can make your next set much more intense. As a DJ, I learned many tricks and techniques on my own through trial and error. And I offer these as a guide to a better audio experience and maybe even some quick fixes as well!

1. Monitor Your Audio Levels

One of the most important skills a DJ can master is being able to control the volume of the speakers without having to fiddle with faders and turning knobs. To begin, you need to be able to find the correct volume for your system. Then, you can increase it if it's a bit too low, or pull it back down if it's too high. To find the correct audio level, turn up the volume so that the speakers make a crunching sound. You need to be able to hear the sounds that come out of your speakers when you turn the volume on your mixer up to the maximum. Now you know what it sounds like at the maximum, and how loud it should be. You can then adjust the volume controls appropriately to make the correct volume. This way, you can quickly and easily find the best volume for your set, and make sure your mixes are not too quiet or too loud!

2. Rotate Audio Levels With Tracks

If you're using music that has a large range of levels in one song, it's not always helpful to have the entire song play at the same level. After all, some tracks have huge vocals, and some don't.

It's better to simply have different songs play at different levels, so that you can be able to hear everything. When you are using a track that is low or high in volume, it's best to swap out the entire song with a different song of similar volume. To do this, simply hold down the up-and-down volume buttons on your mixer to choose another track. When you do this, it will automatically change the audio levels of the current track to the new levels.

3. Sync Your Audio

Equipment To create a smooth transition between songs, you need to ensure that the audio levels between the songs are synchronized. By doing this, you'll be able to hear the song smoothly between tracks. Syncing up the audio can be done by
